The Name We Wear

As I grew up I was told many times the meaning of my name and how it often connected to me. Benjamin is commonly brought up to mean “Son of the Right hand” or “Son of the south”. In connection to Jacob’s son, some writers have brought up where they were traveling to as the south while being of the right hand could evoke the strength Jacob wished they all could have. Jacob named many of his children with messages of hope even going as far to change Benjamin’s for he was originally Ben-oni which means son of my suffering.

For a great deal of cultures today naming in such a manner doesn’t happen anymore. Though my name wasn’t given like my namesake, I still find meaning in it. For me, I am right-handed and I definitely needed strength when I was born as the doctors said I likely wouldn’t survive. My parents would also mention the fact I was very small and Benjamin has been remembered as the smallest of tribes.

Maybe you were given a name from the Bible, from a family member, or just one your parents liked. There is one name we all can wear, one that we choose to wear, and one that has the greatest meaning: Christian. “For as many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ” (Gal. 3:27). “Now it was in Antioch that the disciples were first called Christians” (Acts 11:26b).

What greater title can be bestowed upon us? It is those who follow Him have the privilege but even more so responsibility to wear it. Such a name goes across borders and languages to unite us. When we are out in the world, at work, online, or anywhere our words and actions are constantly being compared to the name we wear. Let us strive to do our best to honor the name many of us have been able to put on in baptism.
