What to say?

What am I to say at such a time? I know many of our number have lost loved ones, earlier this year we laid to rest our beloved Mr. Homer and there are many more connected to each of you. I pray the Lord will continue to comfort each of us as we grieve and continue to live without those who mean so much to us. I know it will never be easy. We certainly weren't promised ease. I know this though, I know what we fight each day for and what we fight against. But, I am still young and I do not claim to have all the words or wisdom for such a time as this. I look to the Apostle Paul in what he wrote to the church in Rome. While he had not met them by personal visit, that did not leave him without many empowering words through the Spirit.

“What shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us? He who did not spare his own Son but gave him up for us all, how will he not also with him graciously give us all things? Who shall bring any charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. Who is to condemn? Jesus is the one who died—more than that, who was raised—who is at the right hand of God, who indeed is interceding for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or danger, or sword?...No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. For I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels nor rulers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height nor depth, nor anything else in creation can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord (Romans 8:31-35,37-39).

Take care and let not our hearts be troubled for the hope that lies within us. — With my all my love and prayers, Ben Rominske a servant of Christ
